PETTY THIEVES WORK IN MANILLA

Estimated That Over $100 Worth of Merchandise Has Been Stolen There Recently.

BUGGIES AT RACKS ROBBED

Local Detective is at Work and Believed That Miscreants Will be Apprehended.

Manilla is the victim of petty thieves. The whole town is up in arms and whenever the offenders are caught it is said that they will be summarily dealt with. They have been working there for over a month and have stolen, so it is estimated, over one hundred dollars of merchandise and goods. Their chief point of attack is buggies which have been left at the hitch-rack there in the center of the town and in which goods purchased from the stores, have been left. It is believed to be the work of local talent and several people there have gone to work in an endeavor to locate the robbers.

The thieves work at the hitch-rack most of the time although they have stolen articles from the Cross general store there. They have stolen articles out of buggies at the rack within a few minutes after the owners had placed them there. It is said that a very valuable article was stolen from the Gross store only a few days ago. The owner of the store keeps a close watch on his customers and is certain that he will catch the next person who attempts to take anything from his stock.

A Manilla man has gone to work on the job and is playing the part of the detective. He says that he has some clues but that he is not certain enough as yet to place his finger on the guilty parties. It is generally believed that he will eventually learn the identity of the thieves as he has a reputation for ferreting out mysteries successfully.

Manilla is anxiously awaiting the time when the petty thieving will be stopped. Many farmers will not leave anything in their buggies that may be taken away. Sheriff Beabout will probably be called in a few days to lodge the miscreants in the Rush county jail as the man who is working on the job there all but has them located and sufficient evidence against them to place them under arrest.

 "ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE." ***
Press notices tell the story of the thrilling tale, novelized by Frerick A. Toombs, from the play by Paul Armstrong, which will begin to run serially in the Daily Republican tomorrow night, when the first installment will appear. Critics can not describe—they lack the vocabulary—the story that is repeated; the sensational climaxes; the situations, that grip the heart strings; the thrilling moments and last of all the moral that the unusual story teaches. The play enjoyed one of the longest runs any one ever did in New York. Even though it may border on the line that divides the "legitimate" and the melo-drama, it is on a very high plane and is convincing enough to seem real. Readers of the Daily Republican will profit by learning about Jimmy Valentine and the life in which he moved.

GARNETT SMILEY FINED

Pleaded Guilty to the Charge of Drunkenness.

Garnett Smiley was fined one dollar and costs by Mayor Black late yesterday afternoon for being drunk. Smiley was arrested Saturday night by Tom Scanlan and was going to plead not guilty when he discovered that the police had some witnesses and pleaded guilty. Where he obtained the whiskey is not known.

ACCIDENTLY HIT MAN LAST NIGHT

WAS NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED

John Oglesby, giving his home as Atlanta, Georgia, was hit by the I. & C. traction car due here at six-seventeen o'clock last night. The accident happened near the traction station and the car which was coming from the east was running at a low rate of speed, in order to make the stop.

Mr. Oglesby, who is a stock buyer, was on his way to Indianapolis and had lost his direction to the station. He said he saw the car coming, but became confused and could not get off the track in time to avoid being hit.

Due to the low speed of the car he was merely knocked off the track. He was bruised considerably, but examination by the company's physician proved that no bones were broken.

He was able to go to Indianapolis on the next car. The car which hit Mr. Oglesby was in charge of Conductor McKinney and Motorman Cartmell.

WAY TO PROCEED WORRIES THEM

City Mail Carriers Want to Know Best Method of Obtaining Consent of People.

WRITES TO INDIANAPOLIS

City Mail Carrier Howard Carmichael wrote to the Indianapolis Carriers' Association this morning to find out the method they followed in obtaining the consent of the people for closing the postoffice on Sundays. The local postoffice employees desire to close the office on Sundays, but do not know the best way to proceed.

In New Castle the postal authorities passed out cards to all the patrons asking for an opinion on the subject. If the majority favor closing then the matter will be taken up with the postmaster general for him to decide.

The local employees of Uncle Sam believe that the office should be closed on Sunday and will make a hard fight for their rights. In the meantime the office will be open as usual until the question is decided definitely.

MARTIN DENIES PART IN ROBBERY

Greenfield Man, Held as Suspect in New Palestine Case, Baffles Indianapolis Police.

UNEARTH $30 IN PENNIES

Deery Leads Police to Vacant House in Irvington Where Treasure is Found.

Cordie Martin of Greenfield, Ind., arrested late Sunday night following the confession of Vance Deery, 815 Oakland avenue, who implicated him in the robbery of the State Bank at New Palestine, Ind., December 29, was questioned by Captain of Detectives Holtz and Detectives Simon and Manning all day yesterday and until 8:30 o'clock last night, says the Indianapolis Star. He was unmoved by the continued cross-fire of questions and made no important statements concerning the robbery.

The officers unearthed additional valuable evidence in the case as a result of Deery's confession. In company with the young prisoner they visited a vacant house at Irvington, where Deery alleges that he and Martin divided $6,416, the amount stolen from the bank. Upon digging under the front steps about $30 in pennies were found. The coins were wrapped in paper such as is issued at banks and bore the stamp of the New Palestine bank.

Deery told the detectives that he had spent all but $9 of his share of the spoils.

Every method possible was employed by the detectives to gain a confession from Martin but he stoutly maintained his innocence and refused to discuss the case. It is said, however, that he did intimate that if he were allowed to talk with his attorney that he would then give the officers his side of the story. This privilege will be granted probably today.

According to the police Martin has a criminal record, and it is believed that he was the leader in this case. By the catch of Deery by Detectives Simon and Manning the local department will, in all probability, come in for a good portion of a $1,500 reward offered by the New Palestine Bank officials.

HEAVIEST OF WINTER.

The heaviest snow thus far this winter has settled on Rushville and more of it is promised by the weather bureau for tonight. Snow began to arrive about 8:20 last night, and by 7 o'clock in the morning there was about four and one-half inches of it, and snow shovels were being industriously applied by householders.

HEEDS NOT THE RULER'S EDICT

Charley Yee, Local Chinaman, Pays No Attention to Ruler's Orders to Remove Queues.

HE HAS TWO REASONS FOR IT

Suen Hung Makes it Plain That Yellow Man Must do Away With Loose Hair.

Charley Yee, the sole survivor of the Chinese colony which at one time occupied the "two by four" room in First street, will pay no attention to the official edict of Suen Hung, emperor of China who has ordered that all queues shall be cut off, mutilated or torn from the head of every Chinaman, be he at home or in foreign land, by February, fourteenth, which is a notable feast day in the heathen empire. Charley Yee says that he will pay no more attention to the Chinese emperor than if he were not alive, even if he threatened with having his head removed from his body.

In the first place, Charley has many reasons for paying no attention to the most exalted ruler of the Chinese empire. First and foremost, he is not a subject of Suen Hung. He was born in California under the stars and stripes and intends to spend the remainder of his life here. Secondly he never wore a pig tail in his life. He was brought up to learn the American's ways and he is good in the art of playing the American boy.

Charley Yee's father is a Chinese medicine man. He has headquarters in Pittsburgh, but spends much of his time here with his son who operates the laundry all alone. Charley's father wears a queue and Charley is disposed to believe that his aged and much respected parents will be decidedly against the order of the emperor. He says that he doubts whether or not his father will part with his emblem of the ancient custom.

The matter of removing queues has been agitated for some time by leading Chinese, among them Wu-Ting-Fang, former minister to the United States.

After wearing a queue for two centuries and a half, John Chinaman may feel rather odd in discarding his relic of a barbarous age, when it was either wear a long braid of hair or "get your head chopped off."

Frank Moy, mayor of Chinatown in Chicago, approves very heartily of the edict, having had his queue removed some time ago.

The queue fashion of wearing the hair was introduced by the Manchurian dynasty about 250 years ago. The Manchurians, or Mongolians, as they are called had more hair than they knew what to do with. In some way they seized the reins of government and the first thing they did was to issue an imperial order that every Chinaman must wear a queue. Before that the Chinese wore their hair like the Japanese and Koreans. If a Chinaman refused to wear a queue his head was chopped off. He was compelled to adopt the Manchurian style of wearing the hair.

It is the common belief among Americans that the reason a Chinaman doesn't cut off his queue is that he thinks he cannot enter heaven without it. That's only a story. Chinamen the world over, will welcome the decree to cut off their queues. In Chicago there is a Chinese population of about 2000, of which one-fourth have no queues. The other three-fourths, with few exceptions, will climb in the barber chair on February 14, and say "Give me a hair cut."

OLD AFFECTION AWAKENED

Dunreith Couple Wedded After Being Parted in Childhood.

William Davis Harrold and Miss S. Jennie Frances, schoolday lovers, were married in this city by the Rev. G. H. Moore of Friends church, says a Kokomo dispatch. Mr. Harrold and Miss Frances were children together in Dunreith, Ind., but were separated until both met in this city. The affection of childhood was awakened.

SHULTZ BELIEVES HE IS SUSPICIONED

IS LAUGHING TO HIMSELF

Henry Shultz, who is employed a part of the time at the George Smalley livery stable in Perkins streets, is laughing to himself, when no one is looking. He thinks he has "put one over" on someone. He has it that he has been suspected as one of the alleged detectives who were said to be here in an effort to discover the gambling law violations.

Shultz believes that some local men have the wrong "hunch" on him because he has learned that they have been watching him. He says that they have been "shadowing" him, fearing that he may be the "rube" of the bunch, who it was alleged, was here. Shultz says that he has been looking for employment and has been seeking a job on a farm, but so far has failed to meet with success.

GAHIMER TO BE RETURNED HOME

Reported That Manilla Man, Who Has Been in Asylum Has Recovered.

HE TERRORIZED WHOLE TOWN

August Gahimer of near Manilla, who was sent to the Eastern asylum for the insane at Richmond several weeks ago, after he was adjudged to be of unsound mind by a lunacy commission, will be returned to his home Saturday, so it is said. He has been steadily improving since his imprisonment in the asylum and it has been rumored that he would be home several time recently.

It will be remembered that Gahimer imbibed too freely of bad liquor and terrorized the whole town of Manilla. He ran several women all over the town and frightened them badly. He was finally arrested and lodged in jail here. After Gahimer was sober, he realized his mistake and was willing to go to the asylum in order to free himself from the drink habit.

UNIQUE EDITOR LEAVES STAGE

The Rev. F. Wilson Kaler, Novel Figure in Newspaperdom, Sells Four County Herald.

TO DONATE TIME TO MINISTRY

After 19 Years, he Gives up Double Life and Prepares to Finish Career as Preacher.

The Rev. F. Wilson Kaler, the unique editor of the Four County Herald, published at Andersonville, Ind., in the neck of four counties, Decatur, Rush, Fayette and Franklin, is to pass out of newspaperdom forever and devote his time to preaching the gospel. At least that is his assertion, made to a man in Rushville one day recently. He said that he had sold his newspaper plant to another man who would take charge at once. It was impossible to locate Mr. Kaler today to learn the story of the sale from his own lips, as he was not at Andersonville and it is not expected that he will return before the latter part of the week. Persons at his home said that they knew nothing of the sale.

The Rev. Mr. Kaler has accepted two charges and will spend his time henceforth to spreading the gospel from the pulpit. He has accepted a call in Shelby county and one in Henry county and will divide his time equally between the two places. He preached his first sermon at the Christian church in Flat Rock, Shelby county, Sunday and made a deep impression on the audience. The name of the town in Henry county in which he will preach is not known. He will live in Henry county.

For nineteen years the editor of the Herald has been a novel figure in the newspaper world. He has been publishing a paper that was newsy in the extreme for the territory which he had to cover and which told the actions of each and every person's neighbor in the little community. He had the right idea, the went into the home, went to the bottom and laid the facts bare as they were. He never faltered in voicing his sentiments through the editorial columns, always helping the cause for which he stood, Christianity, to the best of his ability.

The editor of the Herald has been in the newspaper business primarily to promote the gospel. He once said that he could wield more influence for the cause of Christianity through his paper than he could from the pulpit. He was once interviewed on the subject and then declared that he could reach more people and do it in a more convincing manner through the columns of his paper than he could from any one of his pulpits.

The Rev. Mr. Kaler has won greater distinction for his paper than most any other paper in Indiana has been able to win. Seldom a week passes that his paper is not quoted in the columns of some New York paper. His epigrams and sayings are believed to be decidedly original and different from the general trend and for that reason he is given space. The New York Herald as well as the Telegram often devotes some space for a clipping from his paper.

Even though the Rev. Mr. Kaler has said that he could accomplish more through the columns of his paper than through the pulpit, his paper has often suffered on account of his love for the other vocation. Many times and often he has forsaken the paper weeks at a time, in order to hold a revival meeting. He merely informs his subscribers that he must heed the call of the pulpit and suspend publication.

DO YOU GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH?

Every day buying is becoming more of a science.

To buy the right kind of goods at the right prices requires discrimination and care—anyone can rush out and buy any old kind of goods from the first dealer he finds.

Some people fail to get the most for their money when it comes to buying their supplies, but are very particular about unimportant matters.

A great help in this direction are the advertisements of the merchants.

Before visiting the stores one can make the task comparatively easy by securing a great deal of information from the announcements of the dealers.

Then shopping can be more intelligently done.

A dealer's sins will sooner or later find him out if he makes a misstatement in his advertisement, and you may depend upon it that he can not keep it up for any great length of time.

It will lose him trade.

The dealer can not afford to misrepresent. He tells the public exactly what he has to sell and explains in honest terms the value of his goods. He is worthy of your confidence and can be depended upon implicitly. This dealer regularly makes his announcements through the columns of the newspapers.

Advertising is the searchlight which reveals true character and only the truth alone can stand regular advertising.

It will pay you to read the advertisements.

WHAT DID TRUSTEES WANT WITH A FUND?

Question the Indiana Legislature
May Ask.

Indianapolis, Jan. 17.—A letter has been made public here which was written by a township trustee of Sullivan county to President Pittenger of the Township Trustees association, in which the writer says that he will not solicit funds "to push the trustees bill through the legislature" if a certain section to which he objects is permitted to remain in the bill. The section to which the writer refers relates to the purchase of supplies for schools and is designed to prevent fraud.

The writer says there will be no money in Sullivan county to help push such a bill through the legislature, and he will not ask other trustees to subscribe to the fund. Members of the legislature do not see why money should be needed, and the trustees may be called before a committee to explain for what purpose money is being raised.

CLUNG TO STORY

Under Cross-Examination Nurse Detective Held Her Own.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 17.—The nurse-detective, Miss Eleanor Zoekler, who was employed to watch Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenck in an effort to catch her giving poison to her husband, was compelled to undergo a severe cross-examination at the hands of S. O. Boyce, one of the counsel for the defense. The chief features of Miss Zoekler's testimony are that Mrs. Schenck tried to bribe her to give John O. Schenck a poison pill, offering her $1,000 for the job; that Mrs. Schenck said she would be the happiest woman in the world when her husband was dead; that the accused prayed every night that her husband would die before morning, and that it pleased her immensely when she received telephone calls each morning that her husband was worse. These things Miss Zoekler reiterated time and again while she was under cross-examination.

Woman's PowerOver Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

DETAILS WANTED

Secretary Meyer Demands Full Report on Extraordinary Case.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer has called upon Rear Admiral Chauncey Thomas, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, for a complete report on the charges made against Rear Admiral E. B. Barry, former commander-in-chief of the fleet, which resulted in his retirement. The department has no information concerning Admiral Barry's conduct, and Secretary Meyer will take no action in the case pending the arrival of the complete report.

Admiral Barry was placed on the retired list on last Friday, upon his own application made by telegraph. As he would have been retired from age on Oct. 20 next, and also in view of the fact that he was assigned to the command of the Pacific fleet only a few weeks ago, the application caused some surprise. Nobody on duty in the department had heard any hint of scandal in connection with the case. The scandal affecting Admiral Barry is similar, it is said, to that which ruined Prince Philip Eulenberg, Emperor William's adviser, in the German "round table" exposé.

State of Indiana, Rush County, ss: In the matter of the petition for the improvement of the Ripley and Center Township Line Road, in said County and State.

NOTICE is hereby given that there has been filed in the Auditor's Office of said County and State the following petition for the improvement of a highway along the line running north and south between the townships of Ripley and Center in said County, the same being more fully described in said petition, which petition reads as follows, to wit:

Is it Non Partisan?

The public accounting law was passed by the Legislature of 1909 at the behest of the Commercial bodies of Indiana. Their request was made in a nonpartisan way for a nonpartisan law. Their sole object was to systemize and economize the public's fiscal affairs by applying to them the new and wonderful principle of uniformity both in book-keeping and in audit.

Now, what has been the method followed by the Marshall administration in carrying out this sacred trust for a businesslike and nonpartisan enforcement of this remedial law? The answer is that no law was ever prostituted to baser or more shameless ends of unscrupulous partisanship. It has served little or no purpose but the manufacture of partisan capital.

This is the way the thing was done: Irregularities of Democratic county officials were suppressed or delayed. Irregularities of Republican officials were rushed to publicity. Sometimes the Democratic managers in distant counties were supplied with information about charges against Republican officials in advance of official publication. The Board of Accounts became little more than a campaign bureau for partisan operations.

Not only this, but wherever any confusion or conflict over the accounts or administration of Republican officials arose the report was so manipulated and colored as to give the impression that the officials in question were defaulters. Petty discrepancies, some of which have been found to be wholly imaginary and others of them that consisted wholly of clerical errors, were blazoned to the world as established proof of crookedness.

The Legislature has already developed the manly spirit of resentment at this wicked perversion of a good law. There are many Democrats who do not conceive this sort of thing to be an inherent and necessary part of Jeffersonian principles. With the legislative aspect of the matter, however, it is not our intention at this time to deal, but it is desired merely to call the attention of the promoters of his good law to the wrong that has been done them in this betrayal of their intentions.

The public accounting law was opposed by some Republicans on belief or fear that its purpose was partisan and that it would be so utilized. Contrary assurances of the most positive character were made by the commercial committees in charge of the bill. How has Governor Marshall treated these promises of fair and nonpartisan execution of the law? He has permitted their gross betrayal, has compromised the good faith of the honest men who urged this bill, and has covered with obloquy and disfavor one of the most enlightened and beneficent reforms an Indiana Legislature ever enacted.

Residents of Main street complained this morning, actually complained. They say that the snow plow was a modern and up-to-date institution, but that the chauffeur could not see them.

The poor chauffeur who married his millionaire employer's daughter, was sensible enough to provide for gasoline and tire expense.

Possibly the hens are layin' for the public now to get even with the packers since the price has gone down on account of the increased supply.

Kokomo farmer has a machine that will make hens lay and still another machine which will make cows give double measure. So far he has not invented one that will make a hickory nut tree bear.

One of our country correspondents says there's nothing to it but the donkey this year. He asserts that the Republicans are so scarce down his way that they can't even find one to be janitor of the school house.

Up at New Castle the brass thieves were busy and the "coppers" soon had them in their grasp.

CHAPTER XIV.

Unwinged.

For awhile she stayed just where she was, her head cradled against his shoulder, but, presently, she stood erect once more, pulled off one of her heavy gauntlets, and with her bare palm pressed the tears out of her eyes.

"You aren't strong enough yet to be used as the support for a really good cry." Her voice was shaky and her speech uneven. There were still some little half suppressed sobs in it. But she turned her face again towards the southern horizon. "If that's the army wig-wag I ought to be able to read it. Tom taught it to me years ago. Perhaps—perhaps it is he who is signaling now."

"Was there a search-light on the Aurora?" Philip asked. "I didn't notice when I saw her." He tried to make the question sound casual, but his voice was hardly steadier than hers.

"Oh, yes," she said. "It was one of the things we laughed at Uncle Jerry for insisting upon, but he insisted just the same. It's a very powerful light, Philip," she said suddenly, after a little silence, "is it not plain impossible, that that we see over there? You know you said, and father said in his journal, that there was no possibility of a relief in the winter. Philip—Philip, isn't it madness—is it the ice madness?"

But before he could answer they heard a rifle-shot ring out in the still air.

"No," he cried, "the long wait is over. Thank God they are here. Fire, Jeanne! Fire the revolver! Let them know they are in time." His lips trembled and tears glistened in his eyes.

It was lying under her hand. There were only three cartridges left, but she fired them all into the air. Then, almost before the echo from the cliff behind them had died away, they heard a dim call in a human voice—a voice that broke sharply as if the shout had ended in a sob.

"It's Tom," she said.

"Call out! It's your voice he'll want to hear." But it was a moment before she could command it. She called his name twice, and then a third time, with a different inflection, for a long, leaping flicker of firelight had revealed a little knot of figures rounding one of the great ice-crags that covered the frozen harbor. One figure, a little in advance of the others, dashed forward at a run. Jeanne sprang to meet him.

For a little while Cayley stood hesitating before the fire, just where Jeanne, in her impulsive rush toward their rescuers, had left him, then slowly, he followed her.

The party on the ice was moving landward again. Even at Philip's slow

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

He Was a Dark-Haired, Dark-Eyed Handsome Young Man."

pace, the distance between them was narrowing. Jeanne and young Fanshaw were coming on ahead. He saw her stop suddenly and throw an arm around the man's neck. She was laughing and crying all at once, and there were tears in the man's eyes, too. Philip expected that. He knew that Fanshaw loved her. His memory of that fact was all that redeemed his memory of their encounter on the Aurora's deck.

But, what he did not expect, was to see Fanshaw suddenly release himself from the girl's embrace and come straight toward him. That was not the most surprising thing—not that, nor the hand which Fanshaw was holding out to him. It was the look in the young man's face.

There was a powerful emotion working there, but no sign of any conflict, no resistance, no reluctance. It was the face of a man humble in the presence of a miracle. He stripped off his gauntlet and gripped Cayley's hand. It was a moment before he could speak.

"It's only just now," he said, "now that I see you here together, that I find it hard to believe. Because I've known all along that you were here with her, keeping her alive until we could get back to her. I've been the only one who has had any hope at all, and with me it's been a certainty rather than a hope. It's as if I had seen you here, together. I've seen you so a thousand times, but now, that I do actually, with my own eyes, it's hard to . . ." His voice broke there.

His duties called him away then rather suddenly, and Philip was left to furl his wings alone. From the process he looked up into Jeanne's face.

"Why, Jeanne!" Her eyes were bright, bright with unshed tears, and there was a little flush of bright color in her cheeks.

"Oh, I know," she said, with an unsteady laugh, "it's absurd to be indignant, but I wished—oh, how I wished, when he was so patronizing and so sure, that you might have slipped your arms into their places and gone curving, circling up, all gold and gleaming, into the air. I knew you wouldn't, but I hoped you would."

"Jeanne, dear," he said, "you'll remember that always—my flight, I mean. But, sometimes you'll get to wondering if it isn't the memory of a dream. And then you'll go and find these old wings in an attic, somewhere, and stroke them with your hands, the way you did that night when I furled them first upon the ice-floe beside you."

She looked at him quickly, wide-eyed.

"What do you mean, Philip? Not that—not that I'm never to see you again?"

He nodded.

"Somehow, up there, with all the world below me, it never seemed real. Even you never seemed real, who were the only real thing in all the world. The earth was only a spinning ball, and there were no such things as men. I wasn't a man myself, up there, not even—even after you had brought me back to life and given me a soul again. Somehow, to be a man one has to wear the shackles of mankind. I can't explain it better than that, but I know it's true."

For a long time she searched his face in silence.

"You used to seem a spirit rather than a man to me," she said, "when I would lie watching you soaring there above me. And now—now it's I who brought you down."

"Do you remember how I told you once that a man like your father was worth a whole Paradise of angels? Well, I want to be a man, Jeanne, as near as possible such a man as he was. And I want to walk beside you always."

"I'll have to confess," he said, "to the rudest sort of inquisitive curiosity about the strange-looking bundle you brought aboard with you from the Aurora. It looks like some primitive Eskimo's attempt to build a flying-machine."

"It is something like that," said Philip. "If you'll have it brought up here on deck I'll open it out to you."

The young fellow's pleasure was almost boyish. "I'll have it brought at once," he said.

The breeze was straight behind them and just about strong enough to compensate for the speed of the vessel, and the air on deck was quite still. With the boy's puzzled assis-

WHO IS TO BLAME

For so Many Sickly Children?

We hear of so many children who are thin, delicate, ailing and tired all the time, we are led to ask what is the cause, and who is to blame?

Don't yblame the children—the have no strength. They play hard, work hard at school, and rapid growth takes all their strength.

It is the mothers of all such children who are to blame, for if they only realized what our delicious cod liver and iron tonic will do for their little ones, they wouldn't sleep at night until they had started them on Vinol.

Only a few days ago a case came to our attention,—Mrs. W. H. Gilmore of Durand, Mich., had a little daughter nine years of age. She was weak, pale, ailing and nothing seemed to do her any good. She gave her Vinol and she began to thrive at once and gained rapidly in weight, color and strength.

We positively know Vinol will build up your little ones and make them healthy, strong and robust. Try a boottle and if you are not satisfied we will return your money. We make this offer to show you our confidence and belief in Vinol. F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

ance Philip spread his wings for the first time since that night when he had dived off the cliff-head to go in pursuit of Roscoe. The recollection was almost painfully vivid, and as he looked into Jeanne's face he saw the same memory mirrored there.

But young Caldwell soon brought them back to the present. He was no longer embarrassed or shy, deferential. Aerial navigation was, apparently, a subject he knew all about. He criticised the shape of the planes, the material they were made of, the curve of this, the dip of that—all in the tone of an expert—and by way of summing up, he said:

"It's rather pitiful, isn't it? In a way any primitive thing always affects me—like old locomotives they have in museums. Somebody, probably, believed once that that would fly. I hope he didn't believe it seriously enough to give it a real trial."

"You don't think it would work, then?" asked Philip.

The young man laughed. "Dear me, no," he said. "It couldn't work."

"At any rate," said Philip, "it's an amusing curiosity."

"Oh, yes; indeed, yes," the young man assented, cordially. "I wish it were mine. Only I wouldn't try to fly with it."

JOHN W. KERN IS NAMED SENATOR

Interesting Ceremony In Indiana Legislature Today.

BOTH HOUSES TOOK A BALLOT

This Will Be Announced In Another Joint Session at Noon Tomorrow, After Which John W. Kern of Indianapolis Will Be Formally Declared the Duly Elected Representative of Indiana in the United States Senate.

Indianapolis, Jan. 17.—A successor to Senator Albert J. Beveridge, whose term of office will expire on March 4, was elected at joint sessions of the upper and lower branches of the state legislature today. John W. Kern, the choice of the Democrats, and Senator Beveridge, the Republican choice, were nominated in both senate and house, where ballots were taken openly, and at high noon tomorrow the final poll of votes will be announced at a joint meeting of the two branches, when, on being declared elected, Mr. Kern will speak.

The election of a United States senator is a procedure established by law. At 11 o'clock today the senate convened. A message was sent to the house asking that members of that body repair to the senate chamber and witness the ceremony. On members of both houses assembling, the lieutenant governor announced the special order of business before the body was the election of a United States senator. Mr. Kern was then nominated, Bernard B. Shively, senator from Marion, making the first speech. Senators Levi P. Harlan, Indianapolis; Harry E. Grube, Plymouth; W. B. Carleton, Evansville, and Robert E. Proctor of Elkhart, followed. There also were other speeches.

The Minority's Nominee.

For the minority, Senator Will R. Wood of Lafayette nominated Senator Beveridge. His speech was not long. The nomination was seconded and speeches made by Senators Edgar Durre of Evansville and Frank M. Gavit of Whiting.

The roll for votes was then called and the result announced. Adjournment followed.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon similar proceedings were held in the house, the senate being invited to be present. Representative Leonard B. Clure of Franklin made the first speech. He was followed by Representatives W. W. Spencer of Indianapolis, James B. Merriman of Bluffton, and H. L. McGinnis of Martinsville. Other representatives also spoke.

Representative George W. Williams of Knightsstown nominated Beveridge for the Republicans. Other Beveridge speeches were made by Maurice McClellan of Angola, Russell K. Bedgood of Lafayette, Miles J. Furnas of Winchester, and Daniel J. Troyer of Elkhart. The house vote was then taken.

At high noon tomorrow both branches will convene in the hall of the house. Lieutenant Governor Hall presiding. Governor Marshall also is expected to be present. The journals of the sessions of the two houses of the preceding day will be read and Kern will be declared elected. The newly chosen senator will then address the legislators. He will not speak at length.

Mr. Kern Going to Washington.

Mr. Kern had been requested to accompany to Washington the Indiana special which left Sunday night to boom Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, for the office of sergeant-at-arms of the national house of representatives. On account of the conflict of dates Mr. Kern, of course, was unable to go with the party, but as he knows many men in Washington whose influence would be of great help to Jackson, and as he wishes the state chairman to get the coveted place, it is probable Mr. Kern will leave Indianapolis Wednesday for Washington, in order to be on hand when the Indiana delegation charges the capitol Thursday.

On account of the senatorial election, Mr. Kern also was obliged to decline an invitation to attend the national Democratic love feast, known as the Jackson Day celebration, to be held in Baltimore tonight. Andrew Jackson was first nominated for the presidency in Baltimore.

Pointers on Liquor Question.

Members of the house who come from counties where there are many temperance people, both Democratic and Republican, as well as of Prohibition party affiliations, are confronted with an option question that threatens seriously to disturb their peace of mind. Petitions and personal letters are coming in to the legislature from many sources.

Communications are being received by assemblymen, both in the form of petitions from churches, W. C. T. U.'s, women's societies and general temperance organizations and also letters from individual constituents. These are of varying degrees of insistence, according to the writer's belief.

A number demand that the county option law shall not be repealed, and ask the representatives to act accordingly. Some merely say the law should not be repealed, while still others, which the legislators declare thankfully to be in the majority, merely ask the representatives to "do the best they can."

EXTRA SESSION NOT UNLIKELY

Legislative Time Clipped By House Action.

SPEAKER CANNON OVERRULED

When the House Decided That No General Business Could Be Considered on the First and Third Mondays of the Month, the Chance of Getting Through by March 4 Was Considerably Lessened.

Washington, Jan. 17.—In the view of the leaders of the body, from Speaker Cannon down, the outcome of another row on the rules in the house indicates the probability of an extra session of congress.

Representative Tawney, chairman of the appropriation committee, was more communicative on the subject than those associated with him in the leadership of the house organization. While he would not permit himself to be quoted, he admitted that as a result of the performance of the house there was slim chance of the regular business of that body being concluded by March 4.

What the house did amounts to the establishment of a precedent that no general business may be considered, no matter what a majority of the body shall desire, on the first and third Mondays of the month. These days must be given over to the consideration of bills called up for passage by unanimous consent, or bills proposed for passage under suspension of the rules and of motions for the discharge of committees from the consideration of measures on which they have taken no action. But as one man may destroy the operation of the unanimous consent rule, and as Representative Mann of Illinois, by utilizing the absurdities of the committee discharge proposition, has rendered it impossible to consider bills under suspension of the rules, it is apparent that for a considerable portion of the legislative total the house is entirely tied up. The flurry came when Representative Hull, chairman of the military committee, made an effort to get consideration of the military appropriation bill in the face of the fact that the house was working on bills under the rule of unanimous consent. The speaker ruled that Hull's motion was in order. The house overruled the speaker's ruling by a vote of 155 to 124.

London, Jan. 17.—Contrary to recent reports, Prince Miguel of Braganza, who married Miss Anita Stewart of New York, and who has taken the title of Duke de Vizeu, has not gone to Pau, but is awaiting in Austria the call which he expects to mount to Portugal throne. He and his agents continue to give out interviews stating the readiness of the duke to take up the burden of government, and already they are outlining the policy he will pursue when he secures the crown. It is understood that the duke was accompanied to Austria by his wife, who is anxious to know what her chances are of becoming a queen.

French Academy Is Favorable to Mme. Curie's Candidacy.

Paris, Jan. 17.—The Academy of Sciences, which seems determined upon the election of Mme. After a long debate the academy classified the candidates as follows: First choice, Mme. Curie; second choice, M. Berthelot, M. Branly, M. Broca, M. Cottin, M. Perot. The election will take place on Jan. 23. If elected Mme. Curie will be the first woman to occupy seat in the academy.

Their Defense Outlined.

Marchfield, Mo., Jan. 17.—The unwritten law will be invoked in the defense of Walter A. Dipley and Goldie Smith, charged with the murder of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion pugilist. Dipley and the woman were formally arraigned today before Judge C. H. Skinner.

LOCAL MAN LEADS STATE DAIRYMEN

A. P. Walker Represents the Indiana State Dairy Association in Fight Against Proposed Measure.

TO INCREASE DOCTOR'S POWER

The dairymen and dairy cattle breeders of the State are up in arms against a bill introduced by Representative Plummer, giving the State veterinary authority to designate who shall make tuberculin tests, says the Indianapolis Star. A. P. Walker of Rushville, representing the Indiana State Dairy Association and the Jersey Cattle Club of Indiana in the dairymen's lobby, went over the provisions of this bill yesterday and said that it gave the State veterinary too much power.

"The dairymen," said Mr. Walker, "hold that local veterinarians are capable of making tuberculin tests. It is contended by the State veterinarian that local men are more apt to give a dairyman or a cattle breeder a clean bill after an inspection. The dairymen want the right to have the State veterinarian come himself or be allowed to name some reputable local veterinarian, who can make the tests. We cattlemen do not want tuberculin cattle on our farms any more than any one else does, but we know what the real object of this bill is."

TEACHERS NOT JANITORS

Building Fires and Sweeping Are Not Their Duties.

Building fires and sweeping floors are not included in the duties of an Indiana school teacher. State Superintendent Greathouse holds that their time is too valuable to devote to this kind of drudgery and he is calling the attention of trustees to the law which provides for employing janitors for schools. In several instances trustees have refused to pay for janitor service and the teachers were either compelled to pay the janitor out of their own pockets or do the work themselves.

TO AMEND QUAIL LAW

Measure is Framed to Protect Birds From Slaughter.

A change in the season for shooting quail and grouse is proposed in a bill which Senator Proctor has for introduction. The bill makes it unlawful to shoot quail from the first day of December until the fifteenth day of October. The bill is designed to prevent shooting quail in any fashion other than on "the wing," and is aimed especially, it is understood, at "pot-hunters."
